College of Fine Arts Named

On Friday, December 7, JU announced the naming of the Linda Berry Stein College of Fine Arts in recognition of a multi-year, multi-million-dollar gift, among the largest investments in the University's 84-year history, from alumna Linda Berry Stein '69 and her husband, David Stein.

"I came to JU as a young woman looking to build my future. My mother and father believed in a strong education and always supported my passions," said Linda Berry Stein '69. "I earned scholarships, worked hard, studied, pursued a music degree and made lifelong friends here."

The PLAYERS Championship Work/Volunteer Opportunity

The Office of the President is searching for Jacksonville University's elite and engaging students to represent their alma mater for The PLAYERS Championship (TPC) in March 2019. For this year's tournament, Jacksonville University will be replacing Florida State University's School of Hospitality as the primary educational partner contributing a majority of volunteers and staff members. The TPC coordinators and Jacksonville University are confident our elite and engaging students can provide a world-class experience.

If your student is interested in learning more about this opportunity, contact family@ju.edu for more information.

Campus Dining Update

Meet Adam Poling, the new General Manager for JU Dining Services, and Kadiatu Sangarie, our new Executive Chef. "We, along with the entire team here, are committed to improving the dining program. We have had regular meetings with student groups, reengaged the Instagram account, and encouraged students to email us directly with feedback. We appreciate all your feedback and look forward to serving JU in 2019!"

Holiday Dining Hours

The Riverview Dining Hall closed on Friday, December 14 and reopen for brunch Sunday, January 6. All other retail dining locations will close on December 14, 15, or 16, and reopen on January 6 or 7. The P.O.D. Market will be open every day over break from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. except Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. They will accept Fall Flex, cash, or credit.

Home Away From Home

"Without JU I would not have been able to attend a four-year college and would not have been able to grow into the person that I am today. As a JU student, I know that I can walk around campus and run into any faculty member and be confident that they will be kind and hold the JU spirit in their heart. JU has truly become my home." – Leticia Fontes '20
